HERE KITTY, KITTY, KITTY...

Medicating Cats: Made Simple!

If you are having to chase "kitty" to give him or her multiple medications during the day and night, consider working with us. Our compounding pharmacy can combine medications and even flavor them for single, simple, stress-free and scratch-free dosing. Here is an example:

Cats suffering from cardiovascular disorders are often treated concurrently with 3 or more medications that must usually be administered at least twice daily. Almost all cats resent and resist involuntary treatment with an oral medication. In addition, the stress from multiple administrations may override the benefit from the drugs administered. For this reason, veterinarians will frequently ask that compounding pharmacists like us prepare "combination capsules," which combine multiple medications into a single dose. We use pure, active pharmaceutical ingredients enabling the compounding of multiple drugs into smaller capsules ideal for cats. This permits the addition of fillers such as flavored powders, which are helpful if the capsule content is sprinkled on moist food for administration.

As a compounding pharmacy we specialize in preparing customized dosage forms for humans and animals and look forward to working with you and your pet.
